General School Updates

No School - January 21-22

There will be no school on Monday and Tuesday January 21-22. The teachers will be gone on Monday to Martin Luther College in New Ulm for a Curriculum Conference about Social Studies. Enjoy the extra days off! Basketball will still practice on Tuesday, January 22. However, since we know that some families may choose to use these extra days to travel or do family activities, this practice is not mandatory. Any players that wish to join us are welcome to come and practice with us!

Parent/Teacher Meetings This Week!

If you have not yet let your child's teacher know when a good time would be to meet with you to discuss school progress, please do so at your soonest convenience. We look forward to meeting with everyone this week!

Miss Cody (Student Teacher) Has Arrived!

We are excited to have Miss Sydney Cody with us in the K-2 classroom for the next 10 weeks as she completes her student teaching requirement as part of earning her degree in education. Please greet her and help her feel welcome! We look forward to having her with us and the knowledge she is able to share with our students!

Little Lambs Preschool Updates

We wrapped up our winter theme learning about ice and Arctic animals. We made penguins. We colored our Insta- Snow with colored water for an added change to our sensory table and saw how colors mix together.

The week of January 21st - 25th:

Letter "Rr"

Color : White

Shape: Oval

Theme: Minnesota

Bible Story: Jesus Changes Water into Wine.

Memory Treasure: 1 Peter 5:7 "(God) cares for you."

Reminders:

No School January 21st & 22nd

Conferences start Wednesday January 23rd. Sign-up in the classroom.

Priority enrollment deadline for Little Lams 2019-2020 school year is February 1st 3:00 P.M.

God's blessings on your weekend!

K-2 Classroom Updates

The K-2 classroom is over the moon excited to have Miss Cody student teaching in our classroom. Miss Cody is finishing her final semester at Martin Luther College in New Ulm, MN. She will be spending 10 weeks in our classroom getting to know us and how our room works. Over the course of the 10 weeks, she will teach all our classes and end with teaching full-time. She will then teach in a public school for 6 weeks and graduate in May. God-willing, she will receive an assignment to teach in a WELS school for next school year after graduation. We can't wait to get to know her better and learn lots from her! Make sure to say hi to her and thank the Otto's for graciously allowing her to stay with them!

3-5 Classroom Updates

Grades 3-5 are excited to be working on our science fair project. We have planned it carefully and began our testing this week. We will be charting our results on a spreadsheet. We are also preparing a poster display and a power point presentation to show what we did. Our novels are both animal stories. Grades 3-4 are reading animal fantasy. Grade 5 is enjoying a realistic story about a boy and a dog. We are hoping to enjoy sledding before the winter is over, but the weather is still waiting for the perfect time.

6-8 Classroom Updates

We were able to finish the novel, The Lion, the Witch, and the Wardrobe by C.S. Lewis in reading classes this week. We really enjoyed the fun, fantasy world of Narnia. We have enjoyed finding the Biblical connections and concepts that C.S. Lewis hid within the story. For instance, the character, Aslan, has many similarities to Jesus.

The entire 6-8th grade class enjoyed spending a day in New Ulm this past week for the first Math Counts Meet. We were able to use our God-given talents that we have for working with numbers to compete with some other area schools in team and individual competition rounds. We look forward to our next meet in February!
