General School Updates

Easter Break (April 18-23)

Easter break from school is right around the corner! This year we have off Thursday, April 18th through Tuesday, April 23rd. School will resume on Wednesday, April 24th. We pray everyone is able to enjoy some time relaxing time with family and friends over the Easter holiday. Jesus is Risen!

Roof Work at Church and School (Starting April 8th)

Starting Monday, April 8th, the flat roof of our church and school facility will be getting replaced. Church and school events will be able to safely go on as normal while the work is completed, but there may be some occasional noise and heavy equipment around the campus outside and in the parking lot. God willing, everything will be completed as anticipated over the course of about two weeks.

End of the Year Schedule

Though we have some time before the end of the year yet, we wanted to inform families of some differences from prior years for our end of the year schedule. Wednesday, May 29th at 6:30 P.M. will be our annual Spring Program for preschool through 8th grade. Each classroom is preparing some songs and entertainment to perform that evening. Awards from various activities during the school year will also be handed out to students that evening. Thursday, May 30th will be a half day and our final day of school. We will close the last day with a chapel service at 11:30 A.M. The graduation service for preschool and 8th grade will then be held at 6:30 P.M. All students will be singing in the graduation service. Please make plans to attend both of these end of the year events!

K-2 Classroom Updates

The K-2 classroom is working hard on their song that we will get to sing on Wednesday at the 4:30pm midweek Lenten service. We can't wait to share it with you!

The 2nd graders are stretching their brains as they tackle 3-digit addition and the kindergartners and first graders are learning all about 3-D shapes. We are also excited to be working in an informational writing unit as we share all we know about a topic. We have also been studying other nonfiction writers to see what they do that we can try.

3-5 Classroom Updates

It's April! It's time for showers in the forecast, Easter, and Research Paper Camp! We all are finishing up our persuasive writing projects. Fifth graders are working on their teacher-for-a-day projects for the novel Firestorm. Third and fourth graders are learning fun things about Norway while we read Snow Treasure. We prepare each day for the tests that will show what we have learned in math, spelling, and social studies.

It's hard to believe there are less than two months of school left. Each afternoon we review new words, skills, and strategies we have learned during the day. There is always an interesting list of words new to our vocabulary. We have grown a lot in our use of the skills and strategies we need for life. The most useful strategy to master is how to support our peers and work together as a community. We can always practice more on that!

We look forward to Holy Week and Easter with those special chances to worship our Savior Jesus. We also look forward to sunny days ahead and more learning experiences. Oh, yes. . .and fun times with our friends each day.

6-8 Classroom Updates

We received back in the mail our published short stories this week. They look really professional - like a real printed book! Make sure to have your child show you their printed copy. We are keeping a copy of each child's book in our classroom library as well. We hope to add more student stories to this library in the coming years.

Each of our math levels have progressed to the point in our math books where we are learning some very new and challenging concepts each day. I have been impressed with the grit shown by our students in focusing during class, sticking with challenging problems even when the work doesn't come easy right away, and eventually mastering the new concepts. This hard work will pay off as the students get ready to transition into the next level of math in high school or in the following grade level book next year!
