K-2 Classroom Updates

We are having lots of fun celebrating the end of the school year! We are in the process of making and publishing books. Some of us are writing stories, while others are creating informational books. Many first and second graders typed their writing and we are now formatting them into books.

We are also enjoying our ABC countdown. This week, we celebrated J with jokes, K with kites (we had to save that for a windy day), L for luau (despite all the rain, we had lots of fun at the "beach"), M for munchies, and N for nice notes. We can't wait for next week!

3-5 Classroom Updates

Where did the school year go? It's hard to believe our Spring Program is less than three weeks away. We are working on songs and skits to share with family and friends for that night. We are eager to show you new skills we have learned.

In the classroom, we are still working hard to learn the last new words, new skills, and new strategies for life's challenges each day. Our research papers are making big progress this week. Grades 3-4 are reading The Corn Grows Ripe, a novel about rural life in the Mexican Yucatan. Next week we will also learn about our neighbors to the north in Canada. Every day we are fascinated by how our classes all seem to be about related things, from reading to social studies to science and math. Fifth graders are busy working on their last reading project of the year.

We look forward to warmer weather next week, our day off on Friday, and the exciting last days of school coming up soon!

6-8 Classroom Updates

This past week our class had the opportunity to participate in the annual Lutheran Grade School Track Meet in Sleepy Eye. The day turned out to be a beautiful, sunny day for a meet. The students competed hard and had a lot of individual and team success. We all left exhausted and sunburned from a day full of field and running events.

This week we completed our first drafts of our research reports. The next couple of weeks we will be editing and refining our work before publishing our final copy. We look forward to seeing the final results!

We have been enjoying preparing some songs and funny skits for the Spring Program performance on Wednesday, May 29th. We look forward to performing them for you that evening!
